Ansaldo STS wins 25 million USD contract in USA

Ansaldo STS (STS.MI), through its subsidiary Ansaldo STS USA, has received a contract from The Port Authority Trans-Hudson Corporation (PATH), headquartered in New York, to supply a Train Control Center system.

The contract value is 24,7 million USD.

Ansaldo STS is centralizing the PATH communication network into one, fully integrated system, which includes:

- Centralized Traffic Control (CTC)
- Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition (SCADA)
- Closed Circuit Televisions (CCTV)
- Integrated voice communications

The CTC system is based on Ansaldo STS USA's Hermes™ platform, an office control solution that features advanced routing algorithms, integration with security systems, passenger information systems, voice telecommunication and enterprise management systems.
