Ansaldo STS awarded the signalling contract of the “South Europe Atlantic” High Speed line (SEA) in France

► The value of the contract is EUR 46,7 million

Ansaldo STS (STS.MI), a Finmeccanica Company, through its subsidiary in France, has been awarded by INEO (GDF SUEZ Group) and INEXIA (Systra Group), a contract to provide signalling systems and services on the new High Speed line connecting Tours and Bordeaux (South West of France).

The value of the contract is EUR 46.7 Million.

The scope of work for Ansaldo STS encompasses the design, supply, test and commissioning of signalling systems and related devices to equip the 343 km (of which 40 km interconnections) of new line and allow operations up to 300 km/h.

Ansaldo STS will provide its Interlocking SEI and TVM 300 technologies together with Track Circuits and Hot Box Detectors. The new High Speed line is due to be opened to commercial service by the April 2017.

With this new contract, Ansaldo STS, leader of rail high speed technology, strengthens its partnership with major actors of railway industry to build safe, interoperable and sustainable railway networks around the world.
